 Then Our "New Peoria" Is What You Want

It has perfect working discs, fitted with dust proof chilled rings, single draw bars that will not gather trash, staggered wheels with 7-inch hub and 3-inch tires, continuous rear with truss rod to support seat and keep drill from sagging, direct pressure in rear of disc; a feature we claim will make his drill work perfectly in any land suitable for sowing grain and where other drills cannot be operated. A seat in center of drill convenient to lever is also furnished. Drop in and let us show you what this drill can do, and furnish you with the names of a score of satisfied users. One feature of our drill that puts it in a class by itself and makes it superior to all other drills on the market is the "Peoria Disc Shoe." You won't find the disc shoe on any other press drill on earth, the Peoria people have that feature cinched and they are going to hang on to it. If you want to know why we can grow more wheat to the acre after this drill than any other with the same amount of grain sown, come in and let us explain to you the

As a platform speaker he is easily the su-advantage in every way—in the range of sub-in discrimination, in marshaling of facts, in logical argument, in the dealing of sledgeham-

BIG DAMAGES

John Johnson Given an $8,- 000 Verdict in the Circuit Court

Yesterday in the case of John Johnson against the C. & O. Railway, the jury returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, awarding him $8,000 damages.

It will be recalled that in 1909 Johnson, while en route to his work, being employed as a workman by the defendant, was run down by a C. & O. train in the East End and lost both of his legs by injuries sustained.

In the first trial in September, 1909, there was a hung jury.

In the second trial in December, 1909, the plaintiff was given a $5,000 verdict. The case was taken to the Appellate Court and the cause sent back to the lower court for a rehearing on the grounds that the judgment given plaintiff was flagrantly against the evidence.

This is the third time the case has been tried in the Mason Circuit Court.
 The case, no doubt, will again be taken to the Court of Appeals.

Meantime it ought to be of interest to millions of Republicans throughout the United States to know where the money comes from to finance Theodore Roosevelt in his campaign of "rule or ruin."

Governor Wilson is a free trader and is so recognized by the rank and file of his party. The truth is emphasized a little by the fact that he buys his socks in Scotland.

His apparent indifference to the condition of American laborers may be due to his ability to get along without being obliged to eat bread in the sweat of his brow.

He has been extremely fortunate in this respect. His autocracy has been deeply tinged with aristocracy during his entire career as an educator and dabbler in literature.

He has neither by personal experience or observation acquainted himself with the actual struggles and needs of the ordinary wage earner.

During the trying times that this country was under the blight of free trade in 1894, '95 and '96, Woodrow Wilson was enjoying a liberal income that was in no degree affected by the deplorable conditions surrounding the laborers in this country.

Mr. Wilson is not to be condemned for his good fortune. On the contrary, he should be disposed to congratulate him, but in self interest the less fortunate should protect themselves against the enforcement of his tariff theories and policy, a trial of which has been given more than once with deplorable effect upon the industrial life of this

WHAT EXPECTED FROM RAILROADS

late Officers Believe They Will Resist in Court the Increased Assessments

THE C. & O. IS BELLIGERENT

Today's Louisville Post.

Colonel Henry L. Stone, general council for the Louisville & Nashville road, returned to Louisville from Vegetonsing, Mich., rather unexpectedly Monday evening, and, as has been understood that he would not be home until September 16th, this fact gave rise to a report that a suit by the L. & N. is near at hand to resist the increase of State taxes upon the L. & N.

Although Colonel Stone maintains reticence as to the probable action of the L. & N. the prevailing belief among State officers, many of whom are in Louisville attending the State Fair, is that litigation is to follow.
The increase upon the franchise assessments of the L. & N. was from $11,000,000 to $45,000,000, the assent being more than quadrupled.
Litigation upon the part of the N. is imminent is made more probable by the news that has reached Frankfort and Louisville that Mr.

Garrett S. Wall of Maysville, attorney for the C. & O. railroad, has stated to several gentlemen that that railroad will resist the increase upon that corporation which was from $2,000,000 to $18,000,000.

In the event these suits are filed the railroads will set out many technical and legal points, and will also, it is believed, contend that the state was in such urgent need of money that it simply increased these assessments without being able to justify them.

If suits are filed, all the railroads that contest will agree to pay to the State upon the assessment of 1911, and will contest only the increase which will amount to from $200,000 to $500,000 in money, depending upon the number of corporations that decide to fight. While such partial payments will assist the congested situation at Frankfort, the money for Confederate pensions will not be at hand, and there will be an instant revival of the talk of an extra session of the Legislature.

These suits could hardly be settled by the Supreme Court of the United States before the close of Gov. Mc-Creary's administration, or three years hence. Those in a position to know assert that Gov. McCreary will not permit the state to drag along in such a doubtful condition as to its finances, and that the filing of suits to prevent the collection of these taxes will almost certainly result in a call for an extra session of the Legislature some time following the November election.

"THE SCUM OF THE EARTH"

THE PRESIDENT SIGNED MOST WILLINGLY

The industrious circulation of the falsehood that President Taft threatened a veto of the Sulloway bill was one of the chief planks of his opponents and worked some injury to his popularity, as his adversaries had planned. That there was no truth in this every senator, representative and other public man could have known if he cared to inquire. "Yet it was a good enough Morgan till after the nomination."

Now these same men are with equal industry and untruth circulating the report that President Taft signed the act of May 11 most unwillingly and was only coerced into it at the last moment. Nothing could be more untrue.

There had been an overwhelming popular demand for additional pension legislation. The people were most earnest in their wish that the veterans who had saved the nation should be properly cared for during the years that remained to them. The national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic had asked for such legislation. The remarkable fact of the indorsement of the Sulloway bill by the legislatures of twenty-seven states was an astounding development of depth and wide extended feeling on the subject.

Could any president be expected to disregard such a manifestation? Certainly not William H. Taft, whose great heart has always appreciated the service of the veterans and who has ever been quickly responsive to the popular will.

No one doubted at the beginning of congress that he intended to approve a pension bill. This knowledge had to be used with the utmost discretion, however. The presidential campaign was opening. There was a general expectation that the Democrats would make a strong effort to "put the president and the senate in a hole" on the pension question. The fear was not allayed until within a few days of the passage of the act of May 11. This required the greatest circumspection on the part of the president and his friends. But as soon as the act of May 11 began to take shape in the senate and months before it actually passed there was no real doubt that the president would sign the bill which would be finally formulated.

At the invitation of senators I was a constant visitor to the capitol while the bill was going through its various stages. I was also made a means of communication with the members of the invalid pensions committee of the house. With me went most frequently Past Commander In Chief John R.
King, less frequently Past Commander Slaybaugh of Potomac, Commander E. S. Godfrey, Arizona; Commander Granville C. Fluke, Massachusetts; Commander N. H. Kingman, South Dakota; Commander N. P. Kingsley, Pennsylvania, and other prominent comrades who happened to be in the city and whom the senators wanted to see and counsel with.

We met Senators Crane, McCumber, Curtis, Smoot, Burnham and others of the president's closest friends and advisers. They were confident in their assurances that the president would sign the bill. The comrades named felt no doubt of the result at least two months before the bill was signed.

As we all know, President Taft put himself to great personal inconvenience in order to sign the bill and let it begin at once its beneficence to the veterans.
The bill was not ready for his signature when he left for Princeton, N. J. He made the journey back to Washington expressly to sign the bill. He reached the White House a little before 11 p. m., Saturday, May 11, affixed his signature seven minutes before midnight and had to leave Washington again the next day. Of these facts I was personally cognizant, as I was present when the bill was signed.

JOHN M'ELROY,
Editor National Tribune.

I fully concur in the foregoing.

There is absolutely no truth in the statement that the president was opposed to any pension bill. On the contrary, we were assured, as stated above, that he would give his approval to the bill when finally passed, which was evidenced by his hasty return to Washington for the purpose.

JOHN R. KING.

WILSON WOULD REPEAL ALL PROTECTIVE TARIFF LAWS.

The following is taken from an address delivered by Professor Woodrow Wilson before the tariff board in 1882, showing his view then on the question of the tariff and his position as a free trader, opposed to all tariffs except merely for the purpose of raising revenue:

"But the danger of imposing protective duties is that when the policy is once embarked upon it cannot be easily receded from. Protection is nothing more than a bounty, and when we offer bounties to manufacturers they will enter into industries and build up interests and when at a later day we seek to overthrow this protective tariff we must hurt somebody and of course there is objection. They will say, 'Thousands of men will be thrown out of employment and hundreds of people will lose their capital.' This seems very plausible; but I maintain that manufacturers are made better manufacturers whenever they are thrown upon their own resources and left to the natural competition of trade."

"Protection also hinders commerce immensely. The English people do not send as many goods to this country as they would if the duties were not so much and in that way there is a restriction of commerce and we are building up manufacturers here at the expense of commerce. We are holding ourselves aloof from foreign countries in effect and saying, 'We are sufficient to ourselves; we wish to trade, not with England, but with each other.' I maintain that it is not only a pernicious system, but a corrupt system."

"By Commissioner Garland: 'Q. Are you advocating the repeal of all tariff laws?'

"A. Of all protective tariff laws; of establishing a tariff for revenue merely. It seems to me very absurd to maintain that we shall have free trade between different portions of this country and at the same time shut ourselves out from free communication with other producing countries of the world. If it is necessary to impose restrictive duties on goods brought from abroad it would seem to me as a matter of logic, necessary to impose similar restrictions on goods taken from one state of this Union to another. That follows as a necessary consequence; there is no escape from it."

PITCHER WEILMAN

Maysville Recruit Does Fancy Work For St. Louis Browns

What Detroit Fans Say of the Tall Wonder

Detroit, Mich., Dispatch to St. Louis Post-Dispatch September 9th.

He measures only 6 feet 5½ inches in his stocking feet, but he looked to be 9 feet tall to the Tigers until Ty Cobb cut him down in the seventh inning of that final farewell for the Browns on Navin Field yesterday. His name is Weillman and he is the St. Louis pitcher recruit from Maysville in the Blue Grass League.

Never since the days of Cy Falkenberg was there such a correct imitation of the importance of altitude given on the local baseball amusement company's property as that furnished by Weillman yesterday.

This Weillman is some pitcher. He had the Tigers' number and held them to few enough hits—seven for the day. Had he been facing a team with anything but Ty Cobb to break up the game there is little doubt but that he would have won.

HOW IT HAPPENED

Just as an example of the use to which the man from Maysville put his immense stature, take that fourth inning. The Tigers would have stricken the game sure as shooting in this round if it had not been for the ability of the pitcher to shove one hand up into the clouds and pull down the tallest of the skyscrapers in that inning, O'Mara, the Tiger youngster from St. Louis, drove a grounder to Weillman and did with little agony. Then Corridor slammed another at the hurler. With ninety-nine pitchers in a hundred it would have been a hit. With Warhop or Eddie Cicotte in the box the pitcher would have needed a field glass to get a glimpse of the ball. But Weillman extended himself over nine feet in the air straight above mother earth and pulled down the high boulder easily.

It took Cobb and all his quickness in taking advantage of the breaks that came his way to defeat Weillman finally. Ty had been unable to get a hit up to the seventh inning. He led off then. He swung at one ball, a curve that just missed the end of his bat. He was desperate. His feeling showed up his face. He thought to try the bunt game. But the ball dropped below his bat and Ty cursed. His final whack clipped the pellet toward Brown in left. That man tried to rob Ty of a hit by a great running catch. The only objection to the play was that he did not reach the ball and it bounded to the fence, while Cobb raced to the third bag, getting that base on a legitimate single.

A pass ball let loose by Weillman allowed him to score the winning run. Score, 2 to 1.

Do you see how the square cross-rod at top of head and foot secure this bed? Imagine this design with round tubing in those positions. Would not the result be "ordinary" and monotonous?

It is just such details of clever and artistic designing that have made our steel beds so popular. And the very large corner posts with brass caps all combine to make this an unusually artistic bed.

Moreover this bed is as good as it looks. Because it is made of drawn steel tubing, very light in weight—extremely strong.
